

David R. McLean joins Paul Frank + Collins as an Associate

David R. McLean has joined Paul, Frank & Collins as an associate. He will concentrate on trial law, working in the firm's insurance defense, medical malpractice and general tort liability sections of the Litigation Department.

Mr. McLean is a 1989 graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, B.S. (cum laude). He graduated from Vermont Law School (cum laude) in 2000. In law school he received the Maximilian W. Kempner Award for the Class of 2000. The award honors the student who exemplifies the attributes demonstrated by former Dean Kempner - competence, integrity, respect, fair mindedness, and public service. In addition, he served as Note Editor for the Vermont Law Review, and Chair of the Thomas M. Debevoise Moot Court Advisory Board.

Prior to attending law school, Mr. McLean taught writing and natural resource management at Sterling College in Vermont.

Before joining Paul, Frank & Collins, Mr. McLean served as a summer judicial clerk to the Honorable John A. Dooley of the Vermont Supreme Court. Mr. McLean also served as a judicial intern with the Honorable Norman H. Stahl of the First Circuit Court of Appeals.
